The DIMMER VIEW

Bid to Break Welfare Cycle

A United States Senator has come up a different approach to the welfare scandal.

The idea is that of Alan Cranston who is now the Democratic Senate Majority Whip.

Boiled down, his plan encourages states to eliminate error, fraud and abuse in their welfare programs — and it's about time.

Welfare fraud, many people believe, is so deeply entrenched as a part of the welfare system, that it would cost probably $10 for every dollar it could save if watchers and investigators had to be hired to report on cheaters.

"The nation desperately needs a welfare program that is more efficient, more humane and a lot more sensible," Cranston said.

Cranston, along with Senators Daniel Moynihan and Russell Long called the "first step" welfare reform bill would provide 1.5 billion federal dollars in relief to state and local governments. Included would be $215 million more for California. It switches some of the cost from local government to federal. Of course, federal government is us and we're stuck with the eventual bill.

But wait!

The change is from matching funds to block grants. The size of the block grant will not go down as it does under matching funds if local welfare costs are reduced.

Oversimplified, it means that local governments can keep what it saves on cheaters and for correcting errors. That's enough inducement to make local authorities get serious about the ridiculous welfare system that discourages recipients from seeking employment and which makes amoebas without pride nor ambition of humans who otherwise might fulfill their distiny during their years on earth.

". . . states and local governments can realize a savings in welfare expenditures through better management . . . or a more effective welfare plan," Cranston said.

His bill, he said, ". . . is the first step toward changing a welfare system that works so badly that nobody likes it — neither the taxpayer who foots the bill nor the administrators who run the programs nor the recipients who supposedly benefit from them."

He says he favors tax changes to encourage employers to hire people on welfare and to increase the take-home pay of people leaving welfare for work. One of the problems in California presently is that recipients won't leave the welfare womb to take a useful job.

Indications are that under Cranston's bill the state's welfare bite would drop from the present $906 million to $691 million, freeing $215 million in state and local funds for other uses.

The bill which Cranston is pushing would boost federal welfare aid share to $1,121,000,000 (a billion, one hundred twenty-one million.)

If Cranston's bill works it will get many welfare recipients off their vacation-for-life style of existence giving them a chance at becoming honest and useful members of the society which has supported them too many generations.

Block grants, says Cranston, will be adjusted according to consumer price index each year so states can grant cost-of-living increases as necessary.

It may be more costly to the government in the end (let's not forget who pays the government's bills) but if the welfare cycle can be broken, it would be worth a try.

Police May Use Radar On Community Streets

Assemblyman Pete Chacon (D-San Diego) commended the signing of AB 2242 authorizing the use of radar by law enforcement personnel in residential areas.

"'Citizens in Coronado complained to me that cars were zipping by on streets where schools were located and there were children at play. Families living in residences close by and crossing the streets were also in danger. Police in patrol cars would not chase speedsters for fear of adding to the danger," said Chacon.

"AB 2242 is intended to provide another tool by which local police can catch speedsters on residential streets who are endangering the lives of children, adults and the elderly," Chacon said. "The bill specifies that radar can be used only on streets of no more than one half mile in length and 40 feet in width, thus, radar is not authorized for use in thoroughfares, highways or freeways."

Coronado Mayor Pat Callahan and Police Chief Art Le Blanc joined citizens in requesting the legislation from Assemblyman Chacon.

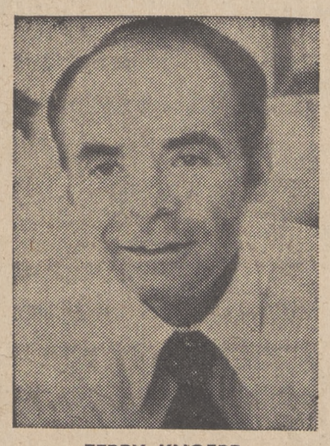
"I am pleased," said the Assemblyman, "that Governor Brown has seen the need for the bill. I am sure that this legislation will reduce the danger from speeding automobiles in residential areas in communities throughout the state," Chacon said.

Will Implement Prop 13 Says Terry Knoepp

"My campaign to unseat Assemblyman Kapiloff looks good. I am encouraged by the response that is coming to me from all of San Diego. It indicates that people are concerned—and rghtly so. They are asking 'How can we send back to Sacramento people who have been unable to work out our demand for tax reform'?"

Terry Knoepp, former United States Attorney for the Southern District of California, and now Republican candidate for the 78th Assembly District, was in Lemon Grove last week to express his views as the election nears.

"When the people spoke via Proposition 13, you'd think that legislators would face up to the facts of life and do some necessary belt-tightening," Knoepp said.



TERRY KNOEPP

"Lawrence Kapiloff and some other legislators are cutting out programs instead of cutting off the fat," Knoepp said. "'As a result the people are suffering while Kapiloff and other unconcerned legislators go along their merry spending ways.

"There is nothing wrong with cutting off programs legislators created for their own benefit and firing members of useless bureaus, but there has been no sincere effort to do that at the legislative level.

"The people have suffered enough! As the assemblyman of the 78th District I intend to make my first point of business the people's business and screen out the waste," he said.

FRIED FISH GIZZARDS?

HARD AT WORK — Yvonne Delgado of Lemon Grove, program coordinator for the new Transplantation Council of San Diego and Imperial Counties, puts the finishing touches on a memo to another staffer in the Gift of Life organ transplant program. Ms. Delgado, a kidney transplant recipient herself, may be reached for presentations to community groups at 297-2470.

LG Kidney Recipient Tells Transplant Tale

By Bob Melton

Yvonne Delgado of Lemon Grove, program coordinator for the new Transplantation Council of San Diego and Imperial Counties, knows very well what a "gift of life" a donated, transplanted organ can be.

As a girl of 14 Ms. Delgado, now 20, lived for two months through what she called the "pure hell" of being hooked up to a hemodialysis machine for six to eight hours three times a week to have wastes cleaned from her blood, after she was struck by total failure of both kidneys on Dec. 1, 1972.

"Psychologically, I started to feel like I was part machine myself," said the alert, vivacious Ms. Delgado, of 3280 Olive St., No. 32, Lemon Grove.

"I had been a very active teenager—dancing, horseback riding. But now I couldn't even read or watch TV, because my eyes were always tired. Because of the tubes in my arm, by which I was hooked up to the dialysis machine, I couldn't be active any more.

"Some people are able to adapt to living on dialysis, but I'd come out feeling just as bad as when I went in."

Besides the psychological effects of hemodialysis, Ms. Delgado noted, it is very expensive—as much as $400 per session to have the entire body's blood filtered through the apparatus.

"It's not unusual to spend $20,000 to $35,000 a year for dialysis," she said. "Luckily, my father's insurance picked up some of my expenses for two months, and the program known as Crippled Children's Services, and some Medicare."

Prior to 1973, there was no Medicare coverage provided for persons needing very expensive dialysis. Legislation was passed through the efforts of such organizations as the Kidney Foundation of Southern California, under which Medicare will pick up as much as 80 per cent of a kidney patient's dialysis costs.

"Even so, the amount the patient pays can still run to $200 or $300 a week," Ms. Delgado said.

Although she received a kidney transplant in February of 1973, Ms. Delgado continues to endure the results of the failure of her own kidneys. To keep her body's antibodies from "rejecting" her transplanted kidney, for the rest of her life she must take a drug which, while it protects the kidney, in the process lowers her resistance to disease.

"I can catch four or five colds during the winter season," Ms. Delgado said. "Many persons who've had organ transplants experience job discrimination because of their lowered resistance to disease.

"There are viruses which only affect persons, such as those who have transplanted organs, who are on this type of medication."

When her doctor determined she could not stay on dialysis, Ms. Delgado said, a kidney to be transplanted was found through the "Gift of Life" search program founded by the Kidney Foundation and now to be administered as one of the programs of the new Transplantation Council (see accompanying story).

She has had bouts of attempted rejection of the kidney by her body's own disease-fighting agents, but has now passed the five-year mark, which statistically seems to be critical for transplant patients.

"Within five years, 50 per cent of transplants recipients cent of transplant recipients per cent will accept it," she said. Even so, she said she has been told by one doctor she may eventually have to have another transplant.

Meanwhile, she's turning her experience to good use, putting on presentations to community groups on the Gift of Life program and the problems and potentials of organ transplantation.

"I'd like to concentrate on the Lemon Grove and Spring Valley areas to start with, since that's home," said Ms. Delgado, a graduate of Helix High School and Grossmont College.

Organ Transplant Center Created

A shortage of vitally needed organs and tissues for medical transplantation has prompted the formation of a new local organization, the Transplantation Council of San Diego and Imperial Counties.

"Organs and tissues are continually needed for transplantation here in our own area," said Don Fenton, president of the new organization. "Through the Transplantation Council, the various organ and tissue interests of San iDego and Imperial Counties will coordinate their efforts to meet this need.

"We plan to aggressively reach out for community support and understanding of the 'Gift of Life' organ donor program," he continued,

As a public service the Transplantation Council has established a "Gife of Life" office. Anyone having questions about organ donation can contact the office at 3543 Fifth ave., Suite A, San Diego, CA 92103 or call 297-2470.

Kiwanis Apple Days Begin on Oct. 25

The Lemon Grove Kiwanis will hold their 24th annual Apple Days October 25 through 28, with Washington Extra Fancy Red Delicious apples being sold in boxes of 100 to benefit local youth and senior citizens programs.

The "apple car" will be stationed at Craig Lake's Texaco Station in front of the Bank of America at Central and Imperial avenues in Lemon Grove, said apple co-chairmen Louis Poluzzi and Jerry McReynolds. Apple lovers may purchase directly from the car, or call Kiwanis members at any of the following numbers: 469-4115, 466-6557, 466-7664, 463-7402, 465-7589 or 460-1755.

Members of the Key Club at Mt. Miguel High School will also be selling apples, said Woody Mott, Kiwanis publicity director, who added that the Kiwanis have sold more than 2,365,100 apples since Apple Days began.

Apple prices are $14 per box of 100, $7 for half a box and $3.50 for a quarter box.

Theme of the Lemon Grove Kiwanis is "Reach Out to Help Others," said Kiwanis president (and Lemon Grove fire chief) Bob Adams. The club supports Little League, Pop Warner, Boy and Girl Scouts and offers camperships to Lemon Grove and Spring Valley schools.

The club has donated more than $57,000 over the years to band programs at Lemon Grove Junior High School and Helix and Mt. Miguel high schools.

Lemon Grove Flunks Test For Surplus $$

The state controller, Ken Cory, has sent out checks totaling $203.7 million to county and city governments as the first of 3 payments of state surplus money which is to replace part of the local tax revenue lost to the effects of Proposition 13.

Cory said Lemon Grove wasn't eligible because the city did not levy an ad valorum tax last year.

L.G. City manager Jack Shelver had advised council weeks ago that the city was not eligible and consequently, the failure to qualify does not affect the budget.

Other cities that failed to qualify were Imperial Beach which granted a cost of living increase to its employees; San Marcos, Carlsbad and Chula Vista, whose general funds exceeded allocation; National City, which declined allocation and Coronado, which didn't file a cost of living certificate.

Del Mar got $25,670; Vista, $105,145, and La Mesa, $111,-338.

The fund is a one-time award distributed in 3 parts—September, December and May.

Traffic Report For Broadway Set for Monday

A traffic study which may decide the future of the parking area on Broadway will be heard Monday by the Lemon Grove City Council, according to Jack Shelver, City Manager.

The study will be presented by Manuel Puentes, traffic engineer of the Auto Club of Southern California.

Council meets at 7:30 p.m. on alternate Mondays at the Community Center on School lane.

L.G. Woman Cited For Aiding Police

A sheriff's Letter of Appreciation has been presented to Mrs. Nellee Hunter of 1910 Massachusetts ave., Lemon Grove, for alert actions in reporting suspicious activities of a juvenile which led to solving two residential burglaries in the Lemon Grove area.

According to the citation signed by Sheriff John Duffy, Mrs. Hunter saw the youth in the backyard of her neighbor's home.

As coordinator of the Massachusetts Neighborhood Watch group, she immediately notified the sheriff's department and deputies located the juvenile at another location in the neighborhood.

"It is this type of involvement which is reducing the number of residential burglaries within the sheriff's jurisdiction at a time when virtually all other crimes continue to rise throughout the nation," Duffy said in his citation.

Younger Claims Brown 'Squirreled' Billion

Evelle Younger has challenged Jerry Brown to explain the mystery of $1 billion in unspent highway funds.

Speaking before the Associated General Contractors Association, Younger said that Brown's Department of Transportation had "squirreled away" nearly $450 million of funds intended for highway construction, and that the Brown Administration had not utilized $500 million in available federal highway funds.

"In the 1960's and early 1970's, California's system of roads and freeways was an example to the nation and world of what could be done by intelligent planning and foresight," Younger told the breakfast meeting at the Burlingame Hyatt House. "For the last three and one-half years, however, our transportation system has become a symbol of neglect. We've gone from progressive planning to mismanagement, deterioration and congestion."

Younger sharply criticized the transportation policies of the Brown Administration, especially the stewardship of the Department of Transportation under its Director, Adriana Gianturco, who, he said, is hostile to the private automobile. Younger noted that Gianturco was responsible for the infamous diamond lane project.

"Ms. Gianturco," Younger said, "has killed a number of projects, delayed others by the technique of 're-review,' and simply refused to go forward with most of the work necessary to close the gaps in California's freeway system."

Younger said that Brown must be held accountable for a mysterious $1 billion of unspent highway funds.

"Some estimates indicate that Cal Trans has squirreled away nearly $450 million which should have been usd for highway construction," Younger explained. "This policy of hiding or 'banking' state cash-on-hand conceals from the people the fact that tax money is still being collected, although it's not being used to build roads or accomplish anything else productive."

Younger revealed that nearly a half-billion dollars of federal highway funds have not been utilized by California under the Brown Administration.

"'Reports of the Auditor General, the Legislative Analyst, and the Little Hoover Commission indicate," Younger noted, "that in addition to funds in the bank, there is approximately $500 million in available federal funds which have not been touched. As a result California which was once first in the nation in putting federal aid funds to work, has slipped to near the bottom. We're losing jobs and we're not getting the roads we need."

Women Meet Tuesday

Spring Valley Women's Club's Junta de la Noche will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Carman Ranch club, 2515 Sweetwater rd., Spring Valley.

The program will be provided by Jo Morton who is program secretary for the Armed Forces "Y".

Her specialty is country western music and she is bringing her guitar to entertain the group.

Refreshments will be served.

Education Panel To Hear Opinions on School Finance

San Diego area citizens and organizations have the opportunity to tell the state legislature how they think public schools should be financed at a public forum Oct. 21 at the San Diego County Department of Education.

Information gathered at the local forum, sponsored by the Educational Congress of California (ECC), will be delivered to the Senate Committee on Education for its use in developing school finance legislation.

Testimony from individuals and groups will be taken in Room 101 at the county department of education, 6401 Linda Vista rd., in San Diego, from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m., with the meeting continuing through the lunch hour.

ECC is a coalition of 19 educational and community groups established by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles in 1972 to support improved school financing and programs. The congress is organizing the forums at the request of Sen. John Dunlap, chairman of the Senate Committee on Education.

San Diego County Superintendent of Schools M. Ted Dixon, who is heading up the local forum planning group, said the legislature must act to establish a permanent method of financing the public schools.

"This year the state was able to provide financial assistance to keep the schools in operation," Dixon said, "but the assistance came from the state surplus. That surplus will evaporate and without something to take its place, public schools throughout the state will be in drastic straits.

"The purpose of this forum is to get viewpoints from the people who own the schools—the citizens — regarding three issues: the sources from which public schools should be financed, the method by which the money should be distributed to the schools and who should determine how the money will be spent by the schools."

The forum will open with an audio-visual presentation on the present method of financing schools and new school finance ideas. Following the presentation, speakers will be recognized from the floor to address the group on the subject of school finance in California. The panel hearing the testimony will be representatives of ECC member organizations and three state ECC officers.

Each speaker will be limited to five minutes. The chair will ask speakers to announce in advance what subject they wish to address, so a broad range of topics can be presented. Persons wishing to speak should bring a written copy of their remarks.

Individuals and organizations interested in providing viewpoints and suggestions may contact the public information office at the county department of education, 292-3688, for information or to reserve time to make a presentation.

Chamber Music Monday at Fiesta Dinner Theatre

It's a Renaissance dream come true!

A treat fit for royalty takes place next Monday at Spring Valley's Fiesta Dinner Theatre. The wine will flow and plates of cheese will be carried by finely dressed servants. And, for the court's entertainment, the San Diego Chamber Players will bring Mozart, Dvorak, Dahl, and Stravinsky to the ears and hearts of their audience.

The 8 p.m. concert at the theatre, 9665 Campo rd., is the premiere performance of the San Diego Chamber Players under the direction of Charles MacLeod, a Spring Valley resident. MacLeod, on leave of absence from the Grossmont College music faculty, has developed the ensemble as the essence of a living classical spirit in San Diego.

The artistic director has studied at the Eastman School of Music, California State University at Northridge, the Marlboro Music Festival, and L'Ecole Monteaux. He is a well-respected musician and conductor and is first clarinetist with the San Diego Symphony.

The Heartland Creative Community Organization and Community Arts sponsor the concert.

Tickets may be ordered by mail or at the box office: Fiesta Dinner Theatre, 9665 Campo rd., Spring Valley 92077 (Kenwood exit off Hwy 94).

A $1 discount is offered to all early mail orders and to senior citizens, students, and military. Please enclose 25 cents handling for mail orders. Regular admission is $7, $8 or $9. Call 697-8977 for information or reservations.

Volunteers Needed To Serve on RSVP

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), East San Diego area, offers a variety of volunteer assignments for seniors, 60 years of age and over. Mrs. Betty Pray, Assistant Program Director, is in the El Cajon office, 215 E. Douglas ave., Tuesday mornings 9-12 and Wednesday afternoons 1-4 to interview and place volunteers throughout the Heartland area.

Current needs are in several areas:

The Salvation Army Nutrition Center in El Cajon needs volunteers to assist with the lunches. Men and women are needed to help serve, pour coffee, set up tables and assist with record keeping.

Schools in the East County want willing helpers to listen to children read as well as to read to them, to assist with clerical and sewing projects and to provide embroidery, knitting and crocheting instructions.

Meals-On-Wheels needs volunteer drivers and assistants in preparing the food.

Angels Unaware, whose volunteers work on everyday living skills with trainable mentally retarded adults, needs help for its one-to-one program.

RSVP, a federally and county funded agency, is administered locally by United Way of San Diego County. The program provides reimbursement for mileage where needed and accident, personal liability and excess automobile liability insurance for all volunteers.

Seniors can find a meaningful way of life after retirement through the RSVP program said Betty Pray, who may be contacted at 440-0487.

There's An Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

Hostility hides fine human being

Q. My husband forbids me to have Christian literature in our home, and he does not want the children and me to attend church. He's so against God that he removed his wedding ring and said in order for me to be truly married to him Id have to stand before the church and renounce my faith.

After five years of trouble and physical violence I quit going to church in hope of showing him how much he was loved. It has not helped. I believe under all this hostility is one of the finest human beings there could possibly be, but my physical, mental and spiritual health are low and worn. I ask your prayers and comments.

A. Of course, to solve this problem you must analyze your husband's life to find the original cause of his anti-God attitude. Having done so, you are then in a position to try to improve his mental attitude.

He has no right to forbid you, his marital equal, to give up your faith than you have to make him have it. Since giving in to him hasn't worked, don't do it any more.

Usually, we convince people of the value of religion by setting before them a beautiful, happy spirit, the attractiveness of which they cannot resist.

We are sending you our booklet called "Spirit Lifters," which may be helpful to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Something deep down

Q. I get the feeling that no one loves me or cares what happens to me. I know better. I know my husband loves me. But there is something deep down that tells me he doesn't. I have to fight that for days, and then I can't show him any love at all. I am afraid if I keep this up I will lose him.

When you know one thing and there is something deep down telling you different it is a hard battle to fight. I have to have some help. I love my husband and I believe I would kill myself if I lost him.

A. That "something deep down" is a profound insecurity feeling. Of course your husband loves you.

Your insecure mental attitude can probably be traced to some childhood experience, and you should get expert counseling help in ascertaining the cause. Then you can face it and deal with it.

In the meantime, one thing you can do is constantly tell yourself that you are a very fortunate woman to have such an understanding husband. Also affirm that you will always have your husband's love.

Losing control

Q. I have been an accountant and income tax man most of my active life, and I really miss the activity of a mind "that used to was and now not is." I am 85 years old and in fairly good physical condition. My mind is not as sharp and retentive as formerly. It's becoming less and less easy to recall things.

Twice a day I take 10-minute exercises to concentrate on the head of a pin, which his helped keep my mind fairly well under control. Am wishing for something to stop my gradual retrogression and would appreciate any suggestion.

A. Every part of the human body reacts creatively to exercise. This is no less true of your mental equipment than of your physical muscles.

Your pin technique is good. In addition, read all the thoughtful material you can find—stuff that is hard reading. Find someone with whom you can have a really intellectual conversation. Keep your mind working, for it does not need to deteriorate.

Everything about yourself that you work, will keep on working, including the mind. We like your question and wish you well.

Sensitivity of Women Is Program's Feature

When is a woman most sexual? The final lecture in the Crenshaw Sexual Forum series will be presented by Dr. Theresa Crenshaw on Thursday, October 19, at 7 p.m. at the UCSD Lecture Hall, Humanities Libary Bldg. Auditorium, Room 1118.

The answers to that question and numerous others will be under discussion.

In the past several years women have demanded more information regarding their bodies, and the latest data and research results will be the topic of Dr. Crenshaw's lecture.

Dr. Crenshaw is one of only 18 Masters and Johnson-trained sexual therapists in the U.S. She currently teaches in the Department of Reproductive Medicine at the UCSD School of Medicine, and directs the Crenshaw Clinic in San Diego.

The Crenshaw Clinic phone is 291-6682.

St. Johns Women Plan November Christmas Boutique

Members of the Women's Club of St. John of the Cross Catholic Church plan a Christmas Boutique sale for Nov. 18 and 19, to be held at St. John's Hall, corner of Washington and Broadway in Lemon Grove.

Committee members working on the event are:

Becky Pryatel and Dee Easterling, flowers and plants; Agnes Jacobsmeier, Christmas gifts; Irene Dugas, Christmas cards and religious articles; Bonnie Mueller, kitchen articles; Vickie Riveria, toys and baby articles; Martha Strickland, coffee shop (with pie and cake for sale).

Christmas breads and other baked goods will be sold, and two raffles will be held, under the supervision of Eleanor Carroa. All articles to be sold will be newly made by parish women.

This Week's RECIPE

Pork Loin & Applesauce

Apples are often thought of as a natural accompaniment to pork. Many's the time a plate of pork chops is accompanied by a little mound of applesauce.

Here's a recipe in which applesauce is cooked along with pork, enabling it to absorb the apple flavor while it roasts. As with most other "American" dishes this one was brought here from "the old country" — in this case, Poland.

It's important that the backbone of the pork loin roast be cut through lengthwise but left attached and then tied to the loin in three or four places with twine. Most butchers know how to do this and will be happy to prepare it for you.

Serve this roast with fried potatoes, a green vegetable and heated applesauce as a garnish. A nice wine accompaniment would be a Gamay Beaujolais or an Italian Bardolino or Valpolicella.

Applesauce-Glazed Pork Loin

5-pound center-cut pork loin with bone attached
1 teaspoon salt
1 clove garlic, minced
Juice of 1 lemon
Freshly ground black pepper
12 whole cloves
2 cups thick applesauce

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

In small bowl make a paste of the salt, garlic, lemon juice and a few grindings of pepper, using the back of a spoon. With your fingers rub the paste into all sides of the pork loin. Stud the meat at even intervals with the cloves.

Place the seasoned loin fat side up in a shallow roasting pan just large enough to hold it comfortably. Put the pan in the middle of the oven and roast meat undisturbed one hour.

Remove pan from the oven and spread half the applesauce over the top. Cook for another hour, adding more applesauce every 15 minutes. The meat is done when its internal temperature, indicated on a meat thermometer, is 165 degrees or more. Let it rest 10 minutes before carving.

Museum Auxiliary Sets Luncheon

The Covey, auxiliary of the San Diego Natural History Museum, will hold its monthly luncheon Tuesday in the Museum auditorium beginning at 11:30 a.m. with lunch at noon. Walter E. Meary, Chaplain of Bishops School, will present a talk on "The Naturalness of Dreams" following lunch. $2.50 covers lunch and program. For reservations call the Museum 232-3821 Ext. 36.

Organ Concert In L.G. Saturday

Southland Music Center, 3459 Imperial ave., Lemon Grove, will present Ron Rhode in a Theatre Organ Concert on Saturday at 8 p.m.

A native of Moline, Ill., he began playing the piano at the age of 4. By age 11, he was organist at the Methodist Church in Port Byron, Ill. His formal training includes 6 years of piano, French horn and organ at Augustana College in Davenport, Iowa, and at St. Ambrose College, where he completed 3 years toward a Bachelor of Music Education Degree.

Rhode has held playing positions in churches, college and community musicals, music stores and skating rinks in Illinois and Iowa.

In 1973, Rhode moved to Phoenix, where he played at the Organ Stop Pizza Restaurant. He has been featured organist at Organ Stop Pizza's Mesa, Arizona location since its opening in 1975.

He is active in the concert field and has played theatre organ concerts across the U.S. and Canada. He has also 2 long-playing theatre organ albums.

Reservations may be made by calling Southland Music Center at 463-0308 during normal business hours.

Cooking Demonstrations At Walker-Scott Store

The second in a series of four free cooking demonstrations by the managers and head chefs of several leading San Diego restaurants will be presented at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday at the Walker-Scott department store in the College Grove shopping center.

The demonstration will feature Tom Lambert, manager of The Magic Pan Creperie, who will teach the art of making crepes.

The two remaining restaurants in the "'Meet the Chef" series will be Old Damascus (Middle Eastern) on October 21, with chef-owner George Totah, and the Mexican Village (Mexican) on October 28. The Gatekeeper was featured in the first show.

All three demonstrations will be held on the Walker-Scott store's lower level, across from the housewares section, beginning at 1:30 p.m. and continuing for about one hour.

Two complimentary dinners will be given away in drawings following each demonstration.

Free recipes will be available too.

State Income Up 10 Per Cent

SACRAMENTO—State general fund receipts are running 10 percent ahead of estimates for the first two months of fiscal year 1978-79 and are almost 20 percent greater than they were for the same period last year, State Controller Kenneth Cory reported.

"California's healthy and expanding economy, plus the effects of inflation, are reflected in this revenue growth," Cory said. "Even if allowance is made for possible exaggeration because of early reporting of some receipts, the growth is remarkable."

Cory, in his monthly report of General Fund cash receipts and expenditures, pointed out that total expeditures for the two months remain far ahead of receipts to date because more than $1 billion was expended from the general fund surplus in July to help schools and local government offset property tax losses under Proposition 13.

Cash revenue receipts for the two months were $2,185,601,276. Government cost expenditures were $3,541,970,969.

Major revenue sources produced the following receipts through August 31:

Sales tax, $1,017,437,780 (up $185,065,483 from 1977-78); personal income tax, $697,075,607 (up $110,439,532); bank and corporation franchise and income tax, $130,954,336 (up $481,359); inheritance tax, $59,287,224 (up $1,651,349); cigarette tax, $30,469,825 (down $8,175,671); insurance companies tax, $90,765,124 (up $13,219,759); liquor taxes and licenses, $26,456,097 (up $3,686,110); interest income, $86,889,579 (up $63,847,673); horse racing revenue, $11,800,389 (up $2,568,050); health care receipts, $7,623,188 (down $16,310,663); gift tax, $2,871,836 (up $1,162,781); revenue from State lands, $496,792 (down $1,475,053).

Major disbursements were in the following categories:

School apportionments, $979,935,514 (up $450,794,972); social welfare, $413,781,904 (up $92,746,878); health care benefits, $341,358,664 (up $116,452,161); state universities and colleges, $110,502,710 (up $1,941,320); University of California, $99,495,924 (up $262,210); bond interest and redemption, $107,135,043 (up $4,979,643); senior citizens property tax relief, $38,375,787 (down $30,749,239); renters property tax relief, $5,686,327 (up $2,364,450).

Sweet Adelines Plan Nov. Show

Sweet Adelines Singing Hills Chapter has selected a Dixieland theme for its 8 p.m. November 11 Barbershop Show.

"Southern Spice" promises to be a really enjoyable evening for everyone who appreciates good 4-part harmony.

A special touch will be added by Bob Howard who will sing and act as master of ceremonies. San Diegans well remember his starring role as Hajj in "Kismet" at the Starlight Opera this season. Also appearing will be a guest men's quartet, "Yer Fadder's Mustache."

Tickets are available at the door of Lewis Junior High, 5170 Greenbrier in San Diego, on the evening of the performance. Donation to th-e nonprofit organization is $4.

Books, Slides Offered To Fight Sex Stereotypes

New resources to help educators eliminate sex-role stereotyping in vocational education are being distributed to local schools by the San Diego County Commission on the Status of Women.

Developed by Commission staff hired with federal funds, the new materials include a resource manual for use by teachers and counselors and a role model booklet for junior and senior high school students.

The role model booklet includes pictures of, and interviews with, local residents in various non-traditional jobs. Its purpose is to help students, especially girls, avoid the limitations of sex-stereotyped educational choices.

Additional copies of the books, plus a slide presentation "Changing Times, Changing Work," are available through the Commission office at 1375 Pacific hwy. or the Career and Educational Planning Center at 1190 Broadway.

Because of the limited number of copies, schools and organizations are encouraged to duplicate their own copies for wider use in the community.

LANDMARK
COMBINATION SAVING→CHECKING ACCOUNT

INTEREST ON ALL YOUR MONEY.

Beginning November 1, you can earn interest on all your money. You simply open a Landmark Combination Saving → Checking Account with us. It's a whole new way to bank.

As you probably know, a bank cannot legally pay you interest on your checking account. But beginning November 1, we can automatically transfer funds from your savings account to your checking account to cover your checks. We transfer just enough to cover each check as it comes in. We also transfer from your checking to your savings, so you always have a zero balance in checking, and a maximum balance in savings, where it is doing you the most good.

A Landmark savings account pays 5% compounded-daily, which gives an annual yield of 5.13%. You can actually earn more money in this Account than if you placed your savings in a higher interest account and maintained a separate checking account. The reason is that none of your money is "locked up" in a checking account earning no interest. The Table at the bottom of this page shows the annual gain for a person that presently has a $3,000 savings balance and a separate checking account that has an average balance of $900, which is typical. Come into any of our Branches and we can show you what your benefits will be, using your own account balances.

How to get a Landmark Account

We are accepting applications for the Landmark account now, so that a Checking account can become a Landmark account automatically as soon as our MONEY MANAGEMENT TRANSFER SERVICE is legally available. This new regulation is scheduled to be effective November 1, 1978. Stop by one of our convenient offices and sign a signature card, an application and a Money Management Transfer authorization. Until the legal start-up date, keep only what you need in your Checking account by using your 7/24 card to electronically transfer funds between your Savings and Checking accounts. You can maximize your interest-earning Savings now, and when the Landmark Money Management Transfer becomes available, we will do it for you.

Add interest to your life...

Assume you now have a $3,000 savings account and a checking account which has an average balance of $900. WITH THE NEW LANDMARK ACCOUNT YOU COULD BE EARNING INTEREST ON THE WHOLE $3,900.

Type of Present Savings Account	Present Interest	LANDMARK INTEREST	YOUR ANNUAL GAIN
S & L Passbook	$161.70	$199.94	$38.24
S & L 90-Day Account	$177.55	$199.94	$22.39

Miami Dolphins Guests Of Coryell, Chargers

The Miami Dolphins, fresh from a 21-0 victory over the hapless Cincinnati Bengals Monday night on national television, will bring their obvious power to San Diego Sunday at 1 p.m. to be greeted by the resurging Chargers.

The Chargers lead 5-2 in the Dolphin series and are 3-1 against the Dolphins here.

The Dolphins defeated San Diego 28-21 with three touchdowns in the final 8:30 of play, overcoming a 21-7 San Diego lead, in their last appearance in San Diego in 1974. The Chargers defeated Miami 38-10 in Balboa Stadium in the first game of the Dolphins' franchise in the 1966 preseason.

The Chargers snapped a 4-game losing streak last week with a 23-0 victory over the Denver Broncos before 50,077 persons in San Diego Stadium in Don Coryell's first home game as Chargers head coach.

The victory lifted the Chargers to 2-4, two games behind AFC West-leading Denver and Oakland (each 4-2) with 10 games remaining on the schedule.

"We really played hard," observed Coryell. "Against such a fine defense as Denver's you have to be unpredictable. After we got ahead we became a little more conservative. It's an unpardonable crime to lose a game after you've got it won."

On the Chargers' chances of making the playoffs? "I'm only going to worry about Miami, but certainly we have a chance. I don't know what the odds are, but we have a chance."

The victory marked San Diego's first shutout in 16 games, dating to a 14-0 win at New Orleans in 1977. The Broncos were shut out for the first time in 48 regular-season games, dating to a 17-0 loss to San Diego in the final game of 1974. Denver won 7 in a row from the Chargers after that defeat.

Chargers running back Lydell Mitchell needs no introduction to the Dolphins. He played against them 11 times as a member of the Baltimore Colts from 1972-77. Baltimore won 5 of the last 6 games with Mitchell playing a vital role.

"Miami always was very well coached," says Mitchell. "It had good athletes and good coaching. Don Shula has his teams prepared each week. He's the type of coach that if you play for him you'll be ready to go. We had a great rivalry with the Dolphins. Part of it was because Shula began his coaching career in Baltimore and moved to Miami. That and the fact that whenever we played the last few years, it was a big game."

Radio coverage Sunday starts at 10:50 a.m. with Pat Curran's NFL Weekend followed by Chargers Talk and the Don Coryell show. The Lockerroom show comes after the game and Lockerroom resumes.

USD to Join WCAC Conference

The Executive Committee of the West Coast Athletic Conference has accepted the University of San Diego as a conference member as of June 1, 1979, it was announced today by league commissioner Jerry Wyness and Thomas Burke, athletic director at the University of San Diego.

USD, a Roman Catholic University founded in 1949, is the second university in less than a week to be admitted to the expanding WCAC. The Executive Committee also announced that Gonzaga University would also become a member of the WCAC as of June 1, 1979.

"I am personally delighted to have the University of San Diego become a member of our conference," stated WCAC commissioner Jerry Wyness. "I feel our conference along with San Diego State, will give the people of San Diego a chance to see big time college basketball for the first time."

The WCAC will feature a 9-team conference in 1979-80 with the participants being Seattle University, St. Mary's College, Pepperdine University, Loyola-Marymount University, University of Santa Clara, University of Portland, University of San Francisco and, its two newest members, University of San Diego and Gonzaga University.

All conference schools will be required to participate in basketball, baseball, cross-country, golf and tennis. In 1980-81 all members will also have to field a soccer team as part of its intercollegiate program.

Fair Weather 'Guaranteed' for Holiday Bowl

The weather will be fair and the skies clear for the initial Holiday Bowl Game to be played at San Diego Stadium on December 22. The Holiday Bowl will feature the champion of the Western Athletic Conference against a major nationally ranked opponent.

It might be rather presumptuous to predict that good weather will grace the Holiday Bowl; but a check of the National Weather Service tells us that the day of December 22 for the last 104 years has been good.

For instance: Since 1873, or in the last 104 years, it has rained on December 22 only 27 times. That means the chance of comfortable weather is a solid 74.1%.

The average high for December 22 is 66 degrees. The average low is 47 degrees. With the proper clothing, and taking into account the game will begin at 6 p.m., the conditions will be very enjoyable to watch a major college football game.

There is the chance of warmer than usual weather. Once it got as high as 80 degrees on December 22. The lowest it has ever been on that date was only 36 degrees.

So if the elements bother you when you are planning to attend sporting events, don't worry about the 1978 Holiday Bowl.

It will be just right to watch a game that will become a December tradition in San Diego.

Ticket and membership applications for the Holiday Bowl are available daily at the Bowl ticket office, Gate F, San Diego Stadium.

The Holiday Bowl will help benefit the San Diego Children's Hospital and Health Center and the San Diego Institute for Burn Medicine.

Hawks Sign Joe Noris; 'Favorite' List Grows

The San Diego Hawks have signed another San Diego hockey favorite, Joe Noris.

The announcement was made earlier this week by Elmer Jonnet, the Pittsburg real estate developer who is bringing life and hope to the city's reborn Pacific Hockey League franchise.

Noris is the 4th quality player to be signed by the Haws. Others are Mike Bloom, Ray Adduono and the team's leading scorer last year, Bob Sauve.

The Hawks, who open training camp October 23 at the El Cajon Ice Palace, also revealed that they had come to terms with veteran defenseman Reg Krezanski. The 30-year-old, 5'10", 200 pound Krezanski made the PHL's second All-Star team last season.

It will be his third tour of duty in San Diego for Noris, who survived a near fatal off-season automobile mishap in 1976, to enjoy his best pro season. He scored 35 goals and assisted on 57 others for a 92 point 1976-77 season with the WHA Mariners. Noris played for the San Diego Gulls (1972-73) and was a teammate of Mike Bloom.

"Noris gives us great dimension," said Hawks' coach Ron Ingram. "In addition to his regular duties he can play the point on the power play and is able to fill in on defense if we run into injury problems."

The Denver-born Noris, who turned down a good offer to return to the WHA this season, described his choice of San Diego as one requiring a great deal of thought.

"With my playing prospects and other career opportunities here," said Noris, "San Diego is my choice. My brother and I have an established real estate business in Denver and we plan to expand to San Diego."

The Hawks report one month season ticket sales of over 600 with 5 weeks left before the home opener at the Sports Arena November 15. They begin the season November 9 in Spokane. The ticket number is 225-9633.

Local Boxers On Coliseum Card Saturday

A 10-bout amateur boxing card is scheduled at the Coliseum Saturday in the second of a series of San Diego Boxing Club's Youth Development program.

The card starts at 8:15 and admission is free. Seating is on a first-come-first served basis.

Several youthful boxers are on Coach Stu Rubin's Mt. Miguel High school's boxing team.

Sponsor of the Youth Development Program is Danny Millsap who is promoter of boxing and wrestling events at the Coliseum.

He will have a professional card Friday, October 20 with two noted light-heavyweights signed for the 10-round main event. El Cajon's Ronnie Wilson is signed to meet Karl Zurheide of Milwaukee. Zurheide is listed among the top 10 in America in his weight class. Wilson is immensely popular in San Diego and attracts a large following to his scraps.

PEACHY CROP

About 70 million bushels of peaches are produced yearly in the United States.

Foreign Drivers May Dominate Riverside 'Prix'

RIVERSIDE — The largest contingent of foreign drivers in the 21-year history of Riverside International Raceway began arriving early this week for the California Grand Prix Saturday and Sunday.

The traditional fall road racing weekend, which includes two events in the International Race of Champions (IROC) series, plus the season-ending SCCA Citicorp Cup Can-Am, will feature no fewer than 11 foreign competitors, not to mention two other drivers from neighboring Canada.

That record total fails to include American's first world driving champion since 1961, Mario Andretti. Andretti is the most recently crowned of 3 world champions who will race Saturday in the 8-car IROC eliminator. The others are Niki Lauda of Austria and Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil.

They will face four other peers who have competed all season long in the formula 1 series that concluded this weekend in Canada — Patrick DePailler and Jacques Laffite of France, John Watson of England and Alan Jones of Australia. The eighth entrant is an American, IMSA Camel GT series champ Peter Gregg.

4 of those international class road racers will advance to Sunday's IROC finals on the 2.5-mile Riverside road course. There they will meet 8 of the top U.S. drivers, who have survived similar eliminations on the 2-mile oval at Michigan International Speedway.

Jones, who finds himself challenged for the Can-Am driving championship by fellow Aussie Warwick Brown, is the favorite in Sunday's Can-Am, climax to the weekend of speed presented by First National City Travelers Checks. Both drive Lola Chevrolets.

Jean-Pierre Jarier of France, whose sensational performance recently in the U. S. Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, N.Y., marked him as a potential future formula 1 champion, will finish the season in the Dodge-powered Shadow.

Alain de Cadenet of England, driving a two-liter Cosworth-powered Mirage race car sponsored by the British postal service, will be one of the 5 Europeans making their Riverside debuts.

As with Andretti, Foyt, Unser, Yarborough and the Allisons in the IROC, America will be well represented in the Can-Am—with veteran George Follmer, Elliott Forbes-Robinson and Al Holbert among the prerace favorites.

Action gets under way today with the opening of practice for IROC drivers. Practice begins for the Can-Am on Friday.

Tickets are available at the Raceway and all Ticketron outlets or 714/653-1161.

At 7:05 in the Sports Arena

S.D.'s NBA Clippers' Season Opens Sunday

Basketball fans will have an opportunity to see some of the nation's leading hoop stars Sunday when the NBA Clippers—San Diego's own—hosts the Denver Nuggets.

Game time is 7:05 but tickets (some good seats are still available) should be obtained in person at the Sports Arena, Bill Gambles and Sports Arena outlets.

Tickets for subsequent games may be ordered by mail.

Probable lineup Sunday is Sidney Wicks, 6-9, forward; Kermit Washington, 6-8, forward; Sven Nater, 6-11, center; Randy Smith, 6-3 guard and Bird Averitt, 6-1, guard.

Smith was 7th nationally in scoring with 24.6 and he was 7th in assists. Nater was 5th in rebounds with 15.2.

Fans will also see David Thompson, whose play wasn't at all shabby last season, with an average of 27.15. He was 2nd only to George Gervin of the San Antonio Spurs who racked up a 27.21 average to slither past Thompson. There, too, will be Dan Issel, 17th, with a 21.3 and George McGinnis at 20.3.

Ticket sale was listed as "brisk" at mid-week.

Aztec Track Women To Get LB Tests

Fresh from a second place showing in the 36th Annual Aztec Track Invitational, Coach Fred LaPlante's Aztec Women will be on the road Saturday against Long Beach State and USC in the Long Beach Invitational.

SDSU is expecting some tough competition from Long Beach, especially since the Aztecs edged them out 80-81 in the Aztec Invitational. Long Beach beat San Diego State earlier in the year by 30 points.

"I still think Long Beach is a better team than us on paper," LaPlante said. "But I think we are a mentally tougher team than they are. For them to beat us, they'll have to run good."

Aztec Diane Riley put in a stunning performance on the 5,000 meter course, finishing third in 17:43. Jeanne Abare ran a tough race for eighth place after a low blood count the week before.

Abare, Riley, Valinda Hoagland, Cathy Clarke, Chris Smallwood, Vivien Harrell and Kathy Askin will be making the trip.

Outdoors & Travel

By E. L. "Buck" Rogers

There's a difference between big and little fish other than size. Big fish don't get that way by accident; usually they are smarter than their brethren and as a result they're more difficult to catch.

There's a difference in fishermen, too. Every angler who keeps his lure wet most of the time is going to luck into an occasional big fish. But only a few fishermen will land that lunker. The remainder settle for a tale about the "big one" that got away.

Dnring a recent meeting of the Braniff Outdoor Council, these fishing experts discussed the matter of landing big fish and came up with some thoughts that will be helpful in your efforts to catch a trophy fish. Their recommendations were to have a new line, a strong knot, proper drag on the reel, and a rod with enough backbone to do the job.

Since line is the only connection between you and the fish, it makes sense to have the best available. Monofilament line weakens with stress and time, so wise anglers break off several feet of the forward section every hour or so of fishing.

Line size is even more important. With luck you can land a 100-pound sailfish in the ocean on six-pound test line, but you don't have a chance of handling a lunker bass in the weeds with such a line. When fishing where underwater debris is likely to be found, load your reel with 16- or 20-pound test line. It gives you power to turn the fish and eventually land it.

Don't go after big gamefish with tackle that won't do the job. Save the light-duty gear for bluegill and panfish. For big fish use a stiff-action rod, one that'll sink home the hooks. This is especially important with tough-mouthed fish such as tarpon, muskie, dorado and pike, but it also holds true for big bass.

Learn to tie knots that don't weaken your line. Several knots have been developed especially for monofilament line. With patience, care and a little practice, you can learn to duplicate them.

Check the drag on your reel frequently. One that is set too loose will allow a big fish to run for cover. If it is set too tight, the line is likely to break.

Perhaps the best advice the Braniff experts can give is to be patient when you do have a big fish hooked. Play the fish, work it slowly and carefully to the boat. Even if you do everything right, landing a trophy fish is an accomplishment.

2 Wrestling Titles at Stake On Tues. Card

A twin-title card is on tap Tuesday for professional wrestling fans at the S.D. Coliseum.

Diablo will defend his heavyweight crown against Pedro Morales.

In a tag team confrontation, Goliath and The Twin Devil defend their American title against Black Gordman and Hector Guererro.

A newcomer will appear on the local wrestling scene when Bad Leroy Brown mixes with GO. The Continental Lover meets Don Diamond in the opener.

The first bout is scheduled for 7:30 but if the World Series is still being played, wrestling will start at 8:30 with the Series game being shown on television at ringside.

The Coliseum is at 15th and E streets, downtown.

Randy Jones to Head Arthritis Golf Derby

San Diego was the site of the 1978 All-Star Game earlier this year in July with the top names in baseball coming to town for the mid-season spectacular.

Some of those same stars will be paying a return visit to San Diego in November to take part in the Randy Jones-Arthritis Celebrity Golf Derby.

The date for the event has been set as Thursday, November 16 at the Cottonwood Country Club in El Cajon with an 11 a.m. shotgun start. Randy Jones, the ace lefthander of the San Diego Padres who won the coveted National League Cy Young Award in 1976, will head up the tournament and will bring in such names as Tommy John of the L.A. Dodgers and Frank Tanana of the California Angels.

"As a professional athlete, I know how important it is to feel as though you have truly made a mainingful contribution to a worthwhile cause," said Jones. "That's why I have gotten together with a number of other professional baseball stars to put on this golf derby to help raise needed funds for the Arthritis Foundation.

"We plan to have some truly outstanding athletes for you to play with and we'll be adding to our list of entrants as we get closer to the actual date," continued Jones. "This can easily be one of the top golf events of the year in San Diego and with all of the proceeds staying here for the local Arthritis Foundation, you know it will be a worthwhile one."

A full day of activities are planned as there will be a lunch and drinks served on the course during actual competition with with a barbecue, drinks and entertainment scheduled for after the derby.

Joining Randy as the co-host for the event will be well-known radio and television personality Ernie Myers from KOGO.

A blind draw will be held to determine the various four-man teams with each foursome featuring a top professional athlete. Every competitor will receive special prizes with top awards going to the first four teams plus some individual awards for longest drive, etc. The top prize of the day, though, will be the hole-in-one prize of a new Datsun automobile donated by Terry Allen Datsun.

Entry fee is $150 (totally tax deductible) a person with a deadline of midnight, November 10. Those entering must send official handicaps with a check payable to the Arthritis Foundation Golf Derby to: Arthritis Foundation/ San Diego, 3719 Fourth ave., San Diego 92103. Entries are limited strictly to the first 200.

Official entry forms may be obtained from the Arthritis Foundation or by calling 291-0430.

Tots' Toys Golf Tourney Booked For November 17

The Annual Rancho San Diego "Tee Off for Tots" golf tournament hits the greens, fairways and rough Friday, November 17, it was announced by Frank Parks, of the sponsoring firm. He is also tournament chairman.

The tourney, which attracts Navy and Marine Corps officers as well as sports figures and well-known press representatives, will benefit the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve's 1978 Toys for Tots program.

The tourney will be at Cottonwood Country club on Willow Glen rd. near Jamacha rd. with a modified shotgun start.

Handicap is on Peoria-Chicago system. One cart will be provided for every 2 players. Beverage service will be provided on the greens. Lunch will be served between 9th and 10th holes "on the run."

Rancho San Diego will host a cocktail reception at 5 pm. in the clubhouse.

Contribution of $50 for each player is required. Deadline for reservations is November 10 and requests should be mailed to Rancho S.D., P.O. Box N, El Cajon, 92022, attn: Donna Main, or call 462-9110.

Women Drivers In Harness Race

The top female harness driver in the world will be crowned at Hollywood Park when Western Harness Racing hosts the finals of the International Women's Driving Tournament on Saturday.

The best lady drivers from 8 nations have competed at 4 other U.S. tracks, including Arlington Park, Batavia Downs, Roosevelt Raceway and Rosecroft Raceway before heading west for the finale.

The countries participating in the event are Switzerland, Italy, Germany, France, Finland, Australia, Canada and the United States, who will be represented by Michigan born Bea Farber.

Also accepting invitations to compete in the tournament are Bron-Hohner of Switzerland, Marie Christine Weiss of France, Agnese Palagi of Italy, Irmgard Muller of Germany, Margaret Frost of Australia and Donna DeGrow of Canada. Beauty Queen Riitta Vacisienem, 1976 and 1977 Miss Europe, will drive for Finland.

Some of the women driving stars recently competed in a similar championship tournament at the Agnano track in Naples, Italy, drawing a record crowd and handle.

NBA Bullets Trade Walker To Clippers

The San Diego Clippers have acquired guard Phil Walker from the Washington Bullets in exchange for future considerations.

Walker, a 6-3 180 pound one-year veteran from Millersville (Pa.) College, appeared in 40 games for the Bullets during the 1977-78 regular season and compiled a 4.5 per game scoring average.

He played in 4 playoff contests for the defending NBA champion Bullets and appeared in one game of the championship series, when Washington defeated Seattle in 7 games for the title.

As a collegian, Walker compiled a 22.8 per game scoring average over four seasons, and averaged 26.9 points per game as a senior.

As evidenced by his collegiate statistics, Walker is an outstanding scorer. He also penetrates defenses well and is a solid defensive player.

S. Carlsbad Beach Campground Closed

South Carlsbad State Beach Campground will be closed November 1 through April 5, the State Parks and Recreation Dept. announced.

Camping facilities are available at San Elijo State Beach Campground located 6 miles south of South Carlsbad State Beach on the Coast Highway at Cardiff.

Anytime San Elijo State Beach reaches capacity South Carlsbad State Beach will reopen immediately to insure accommodations are available to the camping public.

Any questions regarding this closure may be directed to the S.D. Coast Area Headquarters, P.O. Box 38, Carlsbad, or phone (714) 729-8947.

Aztec Gridders Off to Laramie

San Diego State's Aztec football team travels to the high altitude of Laramie, Wyoming Saturday to take on the Cowboys.

The Cowboys won the season opener and then lost 3 in a row, mostly because of a punchless offense.

The offense has scored only 2 TD's in the last 3 games and only 4 all season. The losing habit hurts. They have scored only 15 points in second halves this season.

The Aztecs, on the other hand, came alive in the second half of the Stadium game with the Fresno Bulldogs and trimmed them 31-14. It was the home opener and tailback Mike Hall, subbing for injured Cal Ray Anderson had easily the biggest night ever, rushing for 135 yards and 2 TD's.

The Bulldogs managed a final touchdown with less than a minute to play.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

Don Coryell is not your everyday, run of the mill, "get one for the Gipper" football coach. Oh, he gives fight talks and the like and is great in the inspiration league, but he goes much deeper than that. Don is a believer.

And he mostly believes in winning. He's one of those guys who goes around in ultra high gear all week getting ready for Sunday's game, leaving no detail untended in a masterstroke of preparation.

Then, comes the weekend, he starts working on his game face after Saturday's practice. The full 24 hours before a game is devoted to football. And not just by Don Coryell, but by his entire team.

It has long been the practice of the Chargers to gather together after Saturday's practice and spend the night before the game at a hotel, holding meetings, looking at game films and getting mentally prepared for the Sunday war.

That concept fits so well in Coryell's mental engineering that if the Chargers hadn't been practicing such a program of pre-game togetherness, he'd have instituted one as his first order of business on taking the reins of the Charger team.

In the days of long ago, when Coryell was building San Diego State football from Division-12 (where they were whipped by the Marine Corps Recruit Depot team) into a national power, Don pioneered the "enthusiasm ensemble" with his Aztecs.

Coryell's defensive formations were left in the hands of (now) Oakland head mentor John Madden and Sid Hall. Madden and Hall believed in hard work and took delight in the "wild men" approach to defense that proved so successful to them, then and now.

But even with all the work John and Sid engineered, they always seemed to arrive on the practice field at Montezuma Mesa before Coryell led his offensive team down the steps to the practice grounds.

"Guess the evangelism meeting took longer than usual," Madden would crack.

"At least he doesn't take up collections," added Hall.

And then practice would begin.

Practice to Don Coryell means only one thing. Everybody hits. If you go one on one, both men hit. Two on two, two on three, five on five, or full scrimmage, everybody hits.

And not for just a little while. Coryell believes in hitting hard, long and often. There are those who claim that lights were put into Aztec Bowl, not so much for night football games, but more for late afternoon practices.

"We worked so hard last week," cracked Hank Bauer, "that the game was a snap."

It's no deep mystery. Don says he doesn't know much about the philosophical reasoning behind all the hitting. All he knows is it is part of getting ready and it works. He's great for things that work.

In Sunday's game the Chargers were sitting on a 20-0 lead with less than nine minutes left in the game and faced a 4th down and five yards to go on Denver's 32 yard line.

Even Coryell says the proper way to play that late in the game when you're sitting on a substantial lead is to keep things close to your vest. "You've got to play a little conservatively," he admitted in the post game interview.

"Is going with a draw on a 4th and 5 with 9 minutes left in the game and a 20-zip score in your favor your idea of playing conservatively?" a reporter asked.

"I worked," Coryell shot back. "Those are always good plays when they work." So much for an outsider's vague ideas of conservatism.

As it was, Lydell Mitchell gained 7 yards on a draw to keep the drive alive until Rolf Benirshcke kicked the final 3 points of the game from 24 yards out.

Coryell is totally consumed with preparations for the Miami Dalphins this week. Right now, it's the most important game of the year for him and his Chargers. After that will come Detroit, then Oakland and on and on until the final league clash at Houston.

the Miami Dolphins this week. Right now, it's the most astic, devoted work-ups for Sunday's game. They will equal the zeal and fervor again next week and so on until they complete their assigned campaign in Houston.

Then they'll probably go on to the playoffs. Despite a 1-4 beginning, Coryell is heading for post season play. It's not a grand scheme based on some capricious philosophy. That's not Coryell's style.

Hell, he's too busy winning football games for any fancy notions like that. "All I want to do," he says," is win football games."

And that's what he does best. Maybe the best of all.

Curtain Falls on Cajon Speedway Saturday With Midget Grand Prix

Cajon Speedway will ring down the curtain on a successful auto racing season Saturwhen the U.S. Racing Club midgets hold a Grand Prix on the Gillespie Field oval.

A 7-card event gets underway at 7 p.m. with qualifying laps followed by races proper, highlighted by a 50-lap main event.

More than 100,000 fans have attended events at the speedway so far this year — making it the 5th consecutive season the 100,000 mark has been reached.

Purses totaling $105,799 have been paid out.

USRC Director of Operations Lowell Stoltz anticipates a large field of cars Saturday with the possibility of some U.S. Auto Club midget drivers joining the action.

That group has ended its midwest season and many of the nationally ranked drivers are expected in the S. Cal. area for several events here.

Double points will be awarded by USRC and the Southern California midget title is still up for grabs.

Current leader John Rahe leads Mike Gehringer by only 34 points and 3rd place runner Roy Cook Jr. still has a shot at the top. Cook has won the championship twice previously while both Gehringer and Rahe have been seeking their first title.

Saturday, Ron Esau scored a popular victory in the 100-lap open super-stock main event at Cajon Speedway.

The 23-year-old 1978 Cajon Speedway champion overhauled an ailing Jimmy Insolo on the 92nd round and then pulled out to a five length lead by the checkered flag to pull down the $1500 win.

In for third was 1978 Saugus Speedway champion Dan Press with 1977 Saugus champion Jim Robinson taking fourth. Rounding out the top five and the only other machine to complete the full 100 laps was George Esau.

The win was a popular one with the 4,381 fans as west coast star Insolo was heavily favored in the event and led the first 91 rounds. Earlier in the evening Insolo had wiped out the existing one-lap track record when he scorched the 3/8 mile paved oval in 1.7:02 seconds. The old mark was set four years ago by the late Bill Spencer and had stood at 1.7:40. Insolo was one of six cars to erase the old standard.

At the start of the feature polesitter Insolo simply ran away from the field and held a comfortable lead throughout most of the race. Esau, who had qualified 5th was 3rd at lap 25.

$44 Million Paid Out In Aug. State Liability

The State's Employment Development Department reported today that more than $44 million in benefits were paid to California workers in August through the state Disability Insurance Program. The program covers workers who become unemployed because of illness or injury not related to the job. Job-related disabilities are covered by Workers' Compensation.

In the first eight months of this year, Janaury through August. the amount paid was August, the amount paid was 218,847 in the same eight months of 1977.

Disability benefits range from $30 to $146 weekly, depending on earnings, and may continue for 26 weeks, plus $12 a day toward hospital costs for a maximum of 20 days. Of the nine million workers in California, about seven million are insured under this program. Approximately 700,000 of these workers received benefits last year.

Unlike the regular unemployment insurance program, which is financed by employers, the disability program is paid for by the workers themselves. Employees pay a tax of one percent on earnings up to $11,400 annually. Employers and self-employed persons may elect coverage and are taxed at the rate of 1.72 percent.

Coverage under the state Disability Plan is mandatory for most workers unless a state-approved alternative plan is substituted, which must cost no more than the state plan and provide at least one greater benefit.

It's Your Money

By John Foley

FOREIGN INTERESTS now control more banking assets in CALIFORNIA than in any other state . . . . MAKING A COMEBACK — Real Estate investment trusts, once on the ropes, are now picking up investors because they learned a lesson the hard way; they are more conservative and have cut out a lot of "dead wood."

YOU CAN RUN but you can't hide — HEW Secretary Joseph Califano says he plans to use collection agencies to recover defaults on guaranteed student loans . . . . CROCKER BANK thinks that the California economy will adjust easier to Prop. 13 than it did to the aerospace layoffs of the late 1960s . . . . SIX OUT OF 10 Americans say that the high cost of living is the nation's biggest problem, according to a Gallup Poll. Americans also feel that the federal income tax is unfair, and many don't understand how it works.

TREASURY SECRETARY BLUMENTHAL says any further increase in the interest rates could very seriously affect the nation's economy. SO WHAT HAPPENS??? — The president of the U.S. League of Saving & Loans says that the interest on real estate loans could go over 10 per cent this year!

CONGRESS IS NOW looking at a bill that would exempt work-places that have 10 or fewer employees from complying with Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) regulations . . . . THE SYSTEM used in California for tax credits when installing solar energy systems will serve as a model for the rest of the U.S.A.

A BANK IN THE NORTHWEST has come up with a way to improve customer service at the teller line. The counters are shaped in a series of "Vs", allowing one teller to wait on two customers at the same time . . . THE MAJORITY of American workers are satisfied with their jobs. Most satisfied the the 25-to-44 age group —most dissatisfied are under-25 and blue-collar workers.

MEXICO NOW CLAIMS that they have the crude oil reserves to become one of the world's top producers . . . MEXICO CITY is growing at an annual rate of 5.6 per cent, the world's fastest for major cities. Government fears are that this will bring problems of traffic congestion, pollution, unemployment, crime and violence and the inability to provide services for the increased population. In 1976, 35 per cent of the urban and 84 per cent of the rural population lacked drinking water, and 57 per cent of the total population had no sewer service.

Audubon Offers Tours Of Wildlife Sanctuary

The San Diego Audubon Society is offering free nature tours every Sunday guided by Society members and dealing with the total environment of a 405-acre wild life sanctuary. The tours will cover plant and animal life as well as rock formations.

Silverwood sanctuary is located in the Holmes mountains, about 5½ miles east of Lakeside, on Wildcat Canyon Road. Six miles of trails varying from easy to rough are spread over 200 acres of the sanctuary, and allow the participant to choose a trail suited to his or her hiking ability.

The sanctuary will be open Sundays from 9 a.m. through 4 p.m. Guided tours are offered at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Self-guided tours with description sheet, are available from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Guided weekday group tours may be arranged by calling Bob Nicholson, Resident Manager, 443-2998 at least two weeks in advance.

For more information call the local Audubon Society, 291-8271, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. weekdays.

Used Newspapers Can Bring Cash

If you throw away your newspaper after you read it, it's like throwing money down the drain.

A San Diego firm is buying used newspapers you can take to its downtown location at 372 4th ave.

The firm, Strickman's, reports that sellers come by passenger car, truck, cart and bicycle all of which is weighed loaded. The paper is unloaded and the vehicle is weighed again. The difference in weight is paid for on the spot and the seller goes away with money in his pocket. He is paid $25 a ton for the newspapers he delivered.

The firm sells most of the newspapers for conversion to fresh newsprint which is sold to publishers on which fresh newspapers are printed, starting the cycle all over again.

HAWAIIAN NEWCOMER

Macadamia nuts are native to Australia but are now grown commercially in Hawaii.

Service Better Than Money?

Home Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of San Diego has a service they believe is better than money in the bank.

They call it Money Mover. Instituted in mid-June, its major feature is allowing interest-earning funds to be transferred back and forth from savings to checking accounts, provided a $1000 minimum balance is maintained. At 5¼%, the interest rate is ¼% more than allowed by banks.

Money Mover is also an umbrella for other automatic transfer services. With a $2000 balance, customers may authorize Home Federal to pay 10 bills a month for free. The Bill Payment Service saves a customer time, postage and check costs.

Four other plans are part of the Money Mover program. Interim Investment allows transfers of funds between Money Mover accounts and customers' stockbrokers. Agents Fiduciary Accounts lets insurance brokers earn interest on premiums held by them but not yet due the insurance companies they represent.

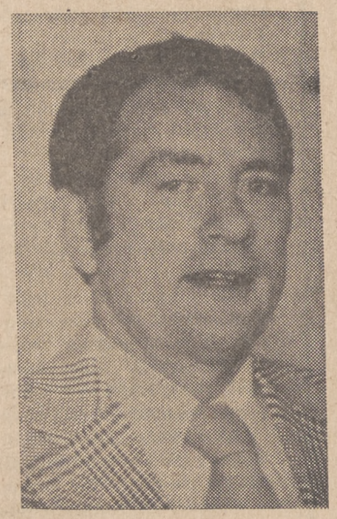
Direct Deposit guards against theft or forgery by allowing Social Security, VA benefits or retirement checks to be deposited directly into an account; and Payroll Savings automatically deducts any sum a customer wants and deposits it into a Money Mover account.

Spanish Vote Info For Those Who Ask

All registered voters who have been registered on the old affidavit form used prior to August, 1976, will receive a card asking them if they want to receive all future election material in the Spanish language.

Those who need the Spanish language material, such as proposition pamphlets, candidates' statements, and ballot material should please return the postpaid card.

Ask Your C.H.P.



C.H.P Capt. C. M. Douglas

Last time Capt. Douglas discussed driving barefooted.

If you have a question, no matter how insignificant it may appear to you, ask it. It could save your life — or at least save you a citation.

Address your questions to this newspaper, and allow several weeks for your question to appear.

This week's question:

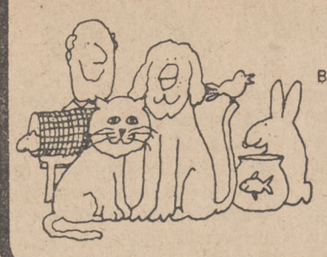
"I drive a pickup with a cab over camper and would like to know the law regarding passengers."

Capt. Douglas' answer:

On a conventional camper, passengers cannot be transported in the camper unit unless two criteria are met. First, an unobstructed exit must be available that can be opened from both the interior and exterior of the vehicle. Second, the passengers must be able to gain the driver's attention either visually (window between cab and camper) or audibly. A camper "boot" or "crawl-through" will meet both criteria.

Although it may be legal, it is not recommended that passengers ride in a camper, for in many accidents the camper will become disengaged from the truck, causing serious injury.

YOU AND YOUR PET



By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.

Birds

Before recent laws restricting importation of parakeets, canaries and other foreign finches, these small birds were among the pets most commonly offered for sale.

Before you buy a bird, consider its home — the cage. The cage size you need will obviously depend upon the type of bird you want. It should be big enough to allow the bird to jump and hop around, with perches of different diameters on different levels.

A rough-surfaced perch or two will help keep the bird's nails short and scrape mineral deposits from the feet.

Plan to put the cage in a draft free spot that receives bright light rather than direct sun.

A caged bird is completely dependent upon you and will need a regular supply of clean water and fresh seed.

The smaller birds do well with most packaged seed mixtures supplemented by pieces of apple, spinach or lettuce once a week.

Parrots and other larger birds require a diet of cracked oats and corn, millet and other whole seeds, with some fresh fruit or vegetables.

Birds only eat as much as they need so you can keep several days' seed in the cage. Don't make the mistake of thinking that the seed cup is full of seeds when it contains only empty hulls. If you blow gently into the feeder, hulls will usually float away and let you see how much seed is left.

Birds have other dietary needs too. They do not have teeth and need fine gravel or grit to aid in grinding seed in the gizzard, a special part of the digestive tract.

Since most seed mixtures are deficient in calcium, you should also put a whole cuttlefish bone in the cage or add finely crushed oyster shell to the seed.

If you wish to breed your pet or "produce" an exceptional singer, your veterinarian may suggest special food supplements.

Finally, if your pet is not up to par, do not hesitate to seek professional attention.

A veterinarian equipped with the special operating instruments and specially formulated drugs is the best person to treat a sick bird.

The bird's size and specialized anatomy make it difficult to try to treat it with medicines prepared for humans or other pets.

If you have never owned a bird before, here are some early distress signals to watch for: prolonged molting or ruffled feathers, general listlessness, wheezing or heavy breathing, development of enlargements or growths, and changes in the character of the droppings. All are signs that your bird is ill and needs professional veterinary attention.

Advance Gifts Total Highest In United Way/CHAD History

The 1978 United Way/Chad Combined Campaign, headed by an advance gifts pacesetter drive among 32,000 employees of 20 leading San Diego County organizatioins, is off to an aggressive and hopeful start.

Thirteen of the 20 Pacesetter organizations already have completed their solicitations, it was announced at the first report meeting heralding start of the general drive.

The advance gifts effort to date represents an average increase of 57 per cent over amounts pledged by employees of the same organizations last year.

The countywide goal of $10,167,834 is 11 per cent greater than the results of last year's United Way/Chad Combined Campaign.

The advance gifts total is the largest ever reported in the San Diego campaign.

The advance effort is still to be augmented by seven additional Pacesetter campaigns. When these are completed it is projected that the Pacesetter drive will have produced contributions and pledges totaling $1,395,604.

This would represent an increase of 28.4 per cent and $250,000 over last year's campaign reults among employees of the same organizatiions.

The countywide goal was announced by General Chairman Clayton H. Brace, vice president-general manager of McGraw Hill Broadcasting Co., Inc./KGTV, and R. P. Richardson, vice chairman/labor, who together represent total community commitment to the campaign.

Deputy chairman of the campaign is Rear Adm. Herbert G. Stoecklein, USN (Ret.), representing CHAD (Combined Health Agencies Drive).

The Combined Campaign helps fund more than 200 health and human care services provided by the agencies of United Way and CHAD and available to all residents of San Diego County.

The Pacesetter organizations are Allstate Insurance Company; Campbell Industries; Cubic Corporation; Foodmaker, Inc.; General Dynamics Convair Division; General Dynamics Electronics Division; Kelco, Division of Merck & Co., Inc.

Also, McGraw-Hill Broadcasting Co., Inc./KGTV Channel 10; Price Waterhouse & Companies; Rohr Industries; San Diego Federal Savings and Loan Association; Sea World, Inc.

Also, Scripps Memorial Hospital-La Jolla; Security Pacific National Bank; Donald N. Sharp Memorial Community Hospital; Solar Turbines International; Spectral Dynamics Corporation; University Mechanical & Engineering Contractors, Inc., Van Camp Sea Food Company, and Vons Grocery Company.

Demo on Younger's Steering Committee

Local Democrat Thomas Neblett has joined the steering committee of Democrats for Younger as chairman for San Diego County.

The growing Democratic backing for the Republican Gubernatorial candidate was marked by a press conference in Los Angeles recently, announcing the formation of the statewide Democrats for Younger committee.

At the announcement, Stanley Tobin, statewide chairman, said he is heading the Younger effort because he feels the incumbent is a "dangerous" man. Tobin said, "Jerry Brown is a political chameleon who changes colors to blend in with his audience. We must rid ourselves and our state of his disastrous policies and politics."

Tobin has been a longtime Democratic party regular. He has served in the campaigns of Pat Brown, Alan Cranston, Tom Bradley and Jimmy Carter, among others.

Lemon Grove Firm Wins Big Navy Job

WASHINGTON — Rep. Bob Wilson (R-San Diego) announced that the following Federal Government contracts were awarded to San Diego firms including one in Lemon Grove:

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON THE ENVIRONMENT
Date: October 12, 1978

APPLICANT:
County of San Diego, California
1600 Pacific Highway
San Diego, CA 92101
236-3419
TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:
The above-named County proposed to request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) to be used for the following project:
City of Lemon Grove Community Center Expansion, EAD Log No. 78-18-72
NATURE OF PROJECT:
Add approximately 2500 square feet to an existing community meeting building.
PROJECT LOCATION:
3146 School Lane, City of Lemon Grove.
ESTIMATE COST:
$100,000
It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the above-named County has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).
The reasons for such decision not to prepare such Statement are as follows:
1. No sites in or eligible for inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places will be impacted.
2. The proposed project will not result in significant adverse socioeconomic impacts such as an aggravation of socioeconomic group distributions within the project area or surrounding areas.
3. The proposed project will not significantly impact public services (such as sewage disposal, fresh water supply, tection or law enforcement) nor unduly contribute to the need to expand or improve such services.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by the above-named County which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file and is available for public examination and copying, upon request, at Room 136, 9150 Chesapeake Drive, San Diego, CA 92123 between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m.
No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted, prior to the request for release of Federal funds.
All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the County to the San Diego County Environmental Analysis Division, 9150 Chesapeake Drive, San Diego, CA 92123. Such written comments should be received by the San Diego County Environmental Analysis Division on or before October 27, 1978. All such comments so received will be considered and the County will not request the release of Federal funds or take any administrative action on the within porject prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

Info Sought For Updated Senior Citizens Directory

Central Federal Savings and Loan Association is soliciting the assistance of individuals and governmental agencies throughout San Diego County in obtaining current infomation for a revised edition of its popular Senior Citizens Directory.

The 80-page booklet, soon to be published for the sixth year, features community-keyed club and organization listings, health information, nutrition centers, educational opportunities and information about discounts, activities and services for senior citizens.

"We would like to know if there have been any changes this year in addresses, telephone numbers, day and time of operation or any other pertinent information that appeared in the directory issued last fall," said Joe Lagnese, senior citizen field representative for the association.

Lagnese requested that additional listings or corrections to existing listings be submitted by October 27 to Editor, Senior Citizen Directory, Central Federal Savings and Loan Association, P.O. Box 81511, San Diego 92138.

When published later this year, the directory will be available free to senior citizens at all of the association's 16 San Diego County branches.

$5,000 Grant Eyes Script Contest

California-Pacific Theatre is soliciting scripts from San Diego county writers for its First Annual San Diego New Play Contest.

The contest, funded through a $5000 grant from The Parker Foundation of La Jolla, represents a major step in the development of professional regional theatre in San Diego.

Through this competition, California-Pacific Theatre intends to provide a forum for the production of new plays written by San Diego writers. The competition is part of California-Pacific Theatre's continuing commitment to provide a showcase for local talent.

The selected play will be given a full-scale production as part of the regular California-Pacific Theatre season series and will be presented in February. The winning playwright will be awarded a $400 stipend at a Valentine's Day Membership party in recognition of the achievement.

In addition, through the generous funding of The Parker Foundation, stipends will be awarded to all actors, designers and directors who participate in the production of the winning playwright's script.

Only original unpublished, unproduced, full-length manuscripts are being accepted and the playwright must be a resident of San Diego county. Deadline for submission of scripts is November 6 and announcement of the winning playwright will be made December 1.

Telephone contact—234-7938.

Cubic Subsidiary Gets $1.1 Million Instrument Contract

A $1.1 million contract has been awarded Cubic Corporation's subsidiary, Cubic Western Data, for microwave land surveying instruments, the San Diego-based company announced.

The order was for 84 modified Electrotape units, to be designated at Model DM-20A, and designed to meet military specifications. Cubic received the pact from the U. S. Army Troop Support and Aviation Material and Readiness Command, St. Louis, Missouri.

According to officials at the San Diego-based company, Electrotape operates in all climates and weather conditions while measuring distances from 100 feet to 30 miles with precise accuracy.

Operating on principles of radio ranging, it measures distance by determining minute changes of a radio wave traveling at the speed of light to and from the point being measured.

Introduced in the early 1960's, Electrotape surveying units are used extensively by private land surveyors as well as govenrment agencies and the U. S. Armed Forces.

Blood Donors Can Have Lifetime Blood Assurance

San Diego Blood Bank Gallon Club members now have the availability of a new program which will allow them lifelong membership in the San Diego Blood Bank's Blood Assurance Plan.

The new program, called the "Gallon Club Fraternity" was developed to provide free blood usage for gallon blood donors who are no longer eligible to donate.

"To accomplish this goal, the San Diego Blood Bank is asking eligible gallon donors to designate one of their regular donations for a Gallon Club member who needs his Blood Assurance Plan renewed," said Lynn Stedd, community relations coordinator.

Since the former gallon blood donors will be covered under the same Blood Assurance Plan program as regular donors, the same requirements and limitations of coverage will stand.

To participate in the Gallon Club Fraternity, gallon blood donors will simply ask the Blood Bank's admittance clerk to designate their credit for a Gallon Club member whose Blood Assurance Plan is about to expire.

In order to initiate this program, Gallon Club members who are no longer eligible to donate are requested to call the San Diego Blood Bank's community relations department.

Blood donors become members of the San Diego Blood Bank Gallon Club after voluntarily donating their eight pints of blood.

Hearing Set On Milk Regulations

A hearing date to reconsider the adoption of regulations pertaining to the labeling and advertising of milk products and imitation milk products has been announced by State Department of Food and Agriculture Director Richard E. Rominger. The hearing has been set for November 14, 1978 at 10 a.m., Room 127, Department of Food and Agriculture, 1220 N. Street, Sacramento.

Individuals who wish to receive copies of the petitions submitted by those requesting the hearings, may obtain them from the Bureau of Milk and Dairy Foods Control at the Department of Food and Agriculture, 1220 N. Street, Room 452, Sacramento, CA 95814.

Mission Valley VFW Plans Buffet

Mission Valley Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 3787 and the Ladies' Auxiliary will host a "dime-a-dip" buffet Sunday after the Charger-Miami football game, beginning at 4:30 p.m. at the post home, 4370 Twain ave.

Proceeds from this event will go for Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for the needy. Ladies of the Auxiliary are asked to bring their favorite dishes to th post home early in the afternoon. For further information regarding donations, call Thomas Sharp, post chaplain, phone 582-6999, or Nadine Ptak, phone 583-1626. She is auxiliary chaplain.

The Post, the Ladies' Auxiliary and Junior Girls' Unit posted 19 American Flags throughout the Mission Village Shopping Center, San Diego, on Columbus Day. In the evening these members retired the flags. This is a ceremony performed on each patriotic holiday. Thomas Melby, post commander, and Carol Melby, auxiliary Americanism chairwoman, organized the ceremony.

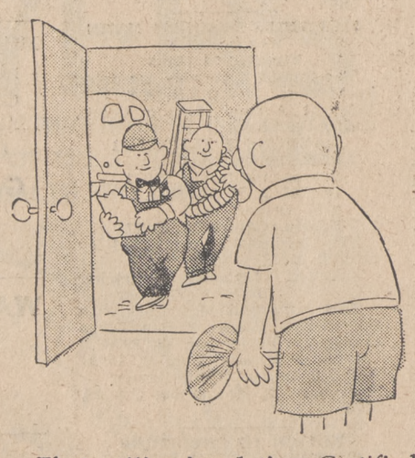
How Mr. Bimble learned to be cool.

Without air conditioning.

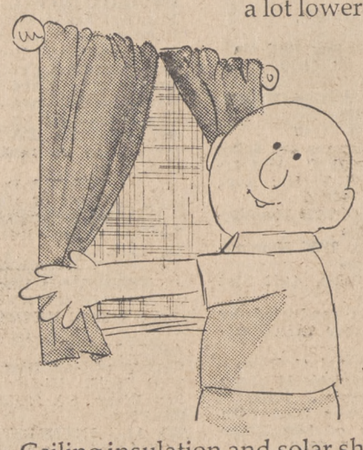
Mr. Bimble tried everything to be cool. He took disco lessons, bought a leisure suit, even grew a mustache. But nothing seemed to work — until he called SDG&E.

They showed him how to be cool the natural way — with a Passive Cooling System. What's a Passive Cooling System, Mr. Bimble asked? It's natural cooling with low cost building materials. It doesn't use a penny of energy. And it goes a long way toward lowering your energy bill. It consists of four simple things.



First, ceiling insulation. Certified R-19 insulation keeps your home cool and comfortable during the long, hot summer and may even reduce your winter heating costs by 19%.

Second, solar shade screens. They may stop up to 75% of the sun's heat and glare before it gets to your windows. They keep your home a lot cooler and more comfortable, and keep your air conditioner operating at a lot lower cost.



Ceiling insulation and solar shade screens are two of the best measures you can take.

Third, ventilation. SDG&E told Mr. Bimble the benefits of installing his own turbine ventilators on his roof to dissipate the heat that gets trapped in the attic. They can give you many other tips on low cost ventilators that you can install yourself.

Fourth, weatherstripping and caulking. More summer heat than you think slips through the cracks around windows and doors. Then, in the winter, adequate weatherstripping may save you up to 12% on your heating bill. SDG&E will be happy to advise you on places in your home where weatherstripping will do the most good.

Certified R-19 insulation and solar shade screens are both installed professionally. We will be happy to give you guidance on ventilation and weatherstripping, which are simple do-it-yourself projects. If you'd like to know more about a Passive Cooling System for your home, be cool, like Mr. Bimble, and send us the coupon below.
